

More and more I have become increasingly worried about our democratic government meddling into our freedoms. I am quite disturbed that you, the FCC should be even considering tampering with satellite radio.

Here you are trying to control such a unique situation, where a person can decide to listen to whatever it is that they please, without affecting the rights of others, without having to listen to the trash that currently fills the public airwaves. On the other hand you continue to impose hand slapping penalties on radio stations that are "free" to the public, that the only thing that they do is hit you with profanity, because they realize that this is what sells.

In my opinion satellite radio is one of the best mediums that has reached the consumer and if you are able and willing to pay for these services so be it. I hope that you cease and desist from tampering with this service.
